

turned to the Moorhead home on School street and today and Sabbath will be given over to a happy reunion.

With the married children are their own children, who will add the final touch to the jollity of the occasion. The Moorhead family have all done well, the boys having fine positions, while two of the girls have married men of importance in the business world and the third is a teacher of rare ability.

The names of the children follow:

D. Lynn, county surveyor of Indiana County; Mrs. S. J. McMains, wife of a prominent dentist of Leechburg; Mrs. Hebert B. Smith, whose husband is a well known flour distributor, of Johnstown; W. O., a member of the firm of Moorhead Brothers, proprietors of the Tog Shop, Indiana; Edward, of West Newton and Charles, of Huntingdon, connected with the Sanborn Map company; Calvin, one of Sunbury's prominent young business men, and Miss Mary, an instructor in the Punxsutawney High School.
