

to me now having recently shed olive drab for civies.

Dad asked me to take census for a souvenir. He is interested in, naming the generations of Greenes since the day of his parents. I could name the minor prophets as easily. One thing I know if families as large as grandfather's are required, that the name may survive. I think it will just naturally peter out in a few generations for the recent depression seems to be creating bachelors and prospective old maids in our set. However I am told that while there is life there is hope.

Seriously those who have preceded us certainly left a record worthy to be attempted by us and I hope and believe our crowd wont fail short in achievements as measured by the age in which we live.

John C. Greene

Late of Corozel

Canal Zone, Panama

THE MOUNTAIN SCHOOL.

The Mountain School house was built in 1872 by John Plotts and Justin Rogers. It was located on the farm now owned by Ward Birdsall.

Some of the teachers who taught at the Mountain School were: Ettie Randall, William P. Shoemaker, Alice Horton, Elizabeth E. Airey, Esther Biddle, Alice Elder, Margaret Snell, Ethel Norton, Millie Hoffman, Mark Harrison, Francis Rinker, Bernice Fish, Dora Clegg.

Some of the pupils were: Bennie Dunlap, John Snell, Walter Davis, William Davis, Viola Davis, Edna Lewis, Josie Lewis, Viola Dunlap, Blanche Dunlap, Nettie Davis, Chrissie Dunlap, Clara Snell, Odessie Avery, Victoria Davis, Dora Brobst, Lillian Dunlap, Minnie Dunlap, Ella Brobst, Ida Davis, George Brobst, Grant Dunlap, Sam Davis, John Brobst, Charles Dunlap, Roscoe Snell, Blanche Dunlap, Flora Birdsall, Edith Warburton, Ruth Dunlap, Abbie Casselberry, Grace Lewis, Harry Dunlap, Harry Casselberry, Walter Van Horn, Robert Birdsall, Pearl Ambs, Virgie Casselberry, Charles Van Horn, Ransom Dunlap, Margaret Snell, Elsie Dunlap, Burr

Snell, Floyd Casselberry, Leland Lewis, Clyde Hubbard, Della Hubbard, George Hubbard, Sadie Snell, Laura Vargason, Herman Konf, Rena Dunlap, Howard Birdsall, Ralph Casselberry, Paul Boyles, Henry Whitelauffer, Bertha Whitelauffer.

ELK CREEK SCHOOL

The Elk Creek School was located between the wooden covered bridge which spans the Loyalsock creek about three miles above Hillsgrove and what was then the Snell grist mill. The mill is now owned by the M. W. Lewis family. No records can be found to determine when this building was erected. Mr. Justin Rogers attended school there from 1861 to 1867. Some of his schoolmates were Eleanore Rogers, Frank Rogers, Clinton Vroman, Lettie Vroman, Henry Vroman, George Lewis, Hiram Osler, Cole Snell, Rachel Snell. Some of the early teachers were: Anna Plotts, December 1865 to March 1866; Mary L. Norton, December 1867 to March 1868; Marion Rogers, June 1870 to September 1870. The school terms at that time were much shorter than at the present time and the salaries were as low as $15.00 a month. The teachers boarded around among their pupils, thus saving a boardbill which they probably would have been unable to pay. Others teaching in the Elk Creek School were: Ursaline Green, Alice Wilcox, Alice Kline, Sarah J. Snell and Sadie Snell. Miss Sadie Snell, later Mrs. Joseph Morgan, was the last to teach in that building. She taught from June 24, 1878 to September of the same year. Some of the pupils who attended there between 1865 and 1878 were: Washington Bryan, Harry Rogers, Charles Vroman, Willie Vroman, Charles Boyles, Richard Lancaster, James H. Vroman, William Snell, Luther Snell, William Warburton, Murray Vroman, John Vroman, Perry R. Snell, Joseph Morgan, Frank Bryan, George Bryan, Conden Snell, Charlie Chilson, Harry Chilson, Charles Jennings, Louis Jennings, Arthur Warner, Francis Lancaster, Albert Lewis, Joseph Bryan, Margaret Rogers, Harriet Boyles,